QUICK ACTION LIKELY.

Now that the Berlin delegation "to conclude an armistice" with Marshal Foch was admitted to the presence of the Great Captain at day break today, it is likely that we shall hear vastly important tidings within a short time. The mind of the public is very definitely made up as to what action the delegation will take when the Generalissimo has stated his views upon a cessation of hostilities. The people are in possession of a clear notion of what will be demanded and they are willing to whisper their belief as to the outcome in quiet corners, although they are a trifle too conservative to be shouting their opinions from the housetops just yet. Washington is inclined to question the authority with which the German delegation is clothed. This is merely an academic point, however, as we see it, since Marshal Foch's terms will call for definite performance; and if the German armies perform according to the demand of the Generalissimo, be asked; and no man will care upon whose authority the performance is completed, or whether the German armies have any authority for surrendering their arms, munitions, transportation facilities; and marching back to their frontier virtually naked.

Washington goes on to remark that Marshal Foch has terms that may seem harsh to the German, but which will admit of no argument. They must be accepted or rejected; and meanwhile it is taken for granted that the Field Marshal will maintain his pressure upon the beaten foe. It is most unlikely that any other thought is in his mind. In fact, the procedure appears so obvious that it is hardly worthy of mention. We have seen with what force Gen. Diaz kept after his adversaries even after the armistice has been agreed upon between Austria and Italy. There is no question that while the armistice is still under consideration between Marshal Foch and the German military command, the Hun will receive daily new object lessons in the beauty and desirability of peace.

It is natural, moreover, that Marshal Foch should demand a quick acceptance or rejection of his armistice terms. Since there is no ground for argument over the matter, the Generalissimo has every reason to be unwilling to have the minds of his men disturbed by the thought that talk is going on behind them. Besides, the situation is too clean-cut to admit of what is known as parley. The terms are ready; and in fact, it is almost unanimously believed that the Germans are equally ready. A reply doubtless will be forthcoming very shortly.—Louisville Times.

GOV. MCCREARY'S LAST WILL.

The will of the late Governor James B. McCreary was read and offered for probate by Atty. John Noland, in Judge Price's county court Monday.

The will covered four pages of legal cap paper and was written by Gov. McCreary and was attested by Mr. R. E. Turley, cashier of the State Bank & Trust Co., and Col. N. B. Deatherage, his old Confederate companion and friend. Both men were present and gave their testimony. Mr. Robert McCreary, of Chicago, his only child, was also present. He was named executor of the estate, which consists of considerable property, including much real estate, in this city, bank stock, a plantation in Florida, money in bank, government bonds, etc. Gov. McCreary willed to his son the Florida plantation, his late residence in Richmond, a brick residence adjoining the postoffice, and much other valuable property and money. He left to his grandson, Lieut. Robert McCreary now with the American forces in France, and granddaughter, Mrs. Harriet Gay, of Fayette county, a 24-acre real estate in Richmond, and also considerable money and personal property. To his granddaughter he willed two handsome diamond rings, worn by his wife during her lifetime, and to his grandson, a handsome gold watch, a family heirloom. He devised to Daniel O'Sullivan, of Louisville, $15 for preparing his biography and $600 for the printing and publishing of same, together with some speeches, messages, etc. while Governor. He also devised that two oil portraits of himself, one to be presented and hung in the Richmond courthouse gallery, and the other to be presented to the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School. These portraits were solicited by the Judge and Bar, and by President T. J. Coates, for the Normal School. Governor McCreary thanked God for health at the time he wrote his will and the many other blessings he had enjoyed at the conclusion.—Richmond Register.

TUESDAY'S RESULT.

Smith, Democrat elected Governor of New York.

California elects a Republican governor.

Gov. Stanley was elected to the U. S. Senate by about 7000 majority.

Early last night a recapitulation of the results of Tuesday's election indicated that control of the senate will depend upon the results of the races in Michigan,

Republican are considered certain of forty-seven Senators and the Democrats of forty-six. Indications are that the Republicans will control the House. The figures early last night were: Republicans 234; Democrats, 195; Socialists, 1; doubtful 5. Howard S. Cummings, acting chairman of the Democratic National Committee, claimed that the Democrats would control the Senate and would organize the House.

LIVINGSTON

Flu! Flu! Flu! Yes, we have had the Flu, but we are up again and at our post. Will try to give some of the news of our little town but will not attempt to try to tell who has had that terrible disease called the Flu, as over half of the town has had a light or severe attack. We have had several deaths from the disease in and near the town and all is not over yet. Near town on Gauley branch there has been two deaths today, a small child of one of the Milburns, and a small child of Lee Wagoner. The situation is gradually getting better and it is to be hoped the disease will soon be blotted out. Drs. Webb and Amyx have been going night and day and doing all in their power to relieve the suffering.—Mrs. C. H. Rice left today to visit her mother in Philadelphia and will stay a few weeks.—Mrs. B. H. Griffin and little son, left today to join her husband in New Jersey. He is with the colors.—S. E. Hellard, of Mt. Vernon, has moved back to our town. Uncle Sidney says there is no place like home.—I. W. Catlin has resigned as assistant agent here and accepted the agency at Highland Park. O. D. Bryant, of Mt. Vernon, is assistant agent here now.—I. W. Catlin will move his family to Highland Park in a few days.—C. A. Blanford, after a two month rest, is back at his old job, agent here.—Marion Smith has moved his family to the Dr. R. G. Webb property on high street.—E. C. Herd, who has had a severe case of the Flu, is able to leave his room.—Miss Mae Evans is helping in the post office this week.—The election passed off quietly here and if there was any bug juice on hands, it was not the fighting kind. We believe the world is growing better, especially in this respect.—The remedy that Dr. Robins, of Brodhead, the patent medicine man, prescribed for us for the Flu, may be all right, but we wish to inform the Dr. that there is but two living things on earth that can stand his treatment and they are a negro and a mule. Well, after twelve days of torture with the Flu we are up again, but not feeling as we once felt. We are here to shoot the harpoon into our friend when he soars away on the wings of imagination and visits some far off fairy land. We look to see our friend any day come down the street calling at every house to sell some of his grand Epileptical Asiatic Paucurical Nervous Cordial, guaranteed to cure all diseases incident to humanity.—Mrs. Robert Griffin, and little son, of London, are visiting Mr. Griffin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Griffin, at this place.—Judge Cam Mullins, of Mt. Vernon, was in our town Monday.—Mrs. Neal Parrot, of Mt. Vernon, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Will Langford.—Mrs. Thomas Farley, who has been quite sick for a while, remains very low.—Mrs. N. H. Oliver, who has been quite sick is much improved.—Judge Summers, W. N. Riggs, Rolley Rose, J. W. Hughes, J. L. Pickett, G. G. Sowder, J. R. Ball, Emmett Quinn, McMartin and J. W. Baker, Jr., all are able to leave their rooms.—Our old friend Hicks says he has a surprise in store for all of his friends. He says after hunting for ten years for a life time partner, success at last has crowned his efforts, but that he will keep the name strictly to himself until the day he intends to surprise the world. Boys, get your old bells and horns, and rattle traps ready. We will shake the mud sills of his domicile when we charivari him.

Catarrh for Twenty Years

Mrs. M. S. Davis, 1607 10th Ave., N. Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"After having been a constant sufferer from catarrh for more than twenty years and after trying almost every remedy advertised, and having lost all hope, I very reluctantly began the use of Peruna about two years ago. Everybody says I look younger now than I did twenty years ago, and I actually feel younger and better, and weigh more. I am recommending it to my neighbors and all with whom I come in contact."

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN Nov. 4.—Buzancy, the largest of the towns delivered by the Americans, reflects the spirit of the vindictiveness displayed by the Germans when they are forced to abandon a region they have held for any considerable time. The town had been almost wholly Germanized. French civilians had disappeared a long time ago and the signs over the shops were all in German. On the streets and avenues such names as Wilhelmstrasse had been substituted for those in French.

There was evidence that the Germans had carried on the usual activities in the municipality, but with complete contempt for previous conditions and with a desire to wipe out any suggestion as to those who had formerly lived there. Their departure, however, was marked as in few other cases by a desire to leave desolation behind them. From end to end the streets of the town and the houses reek with the stench of filth wilfully distributed. The place was a scene of looting, wanton destruction and enfilade, but whether the work was carried out by order is not known.

All such things as were portable are gone from the town. Heavy furniture, including mahogany tables, wardrobes and pianos, were broken to bits and left in the houses. Interior decorations were irreparably mutilated.

It was not simply a garrison community the Germans established in Buzancy, although the town recently was army headquarters. One of the houses bore an inscription indicating it was used as a rest house or club house for women. In a store were found magazines, many of them devoted to fashions. Today, forty eight hours its occupation. Buzancy is the center of an American troop movement. The short streets are jammed with traffic of war and from the hill overlooking it and the hills beyond are to be seen lines of truck trains, marching infantry and moving artillery. From the south unending supply trains approach the city along distant routes in order to pass through Buzancy, from there to be diverted along the newly repaired roads to positions nearer the front.

No Mystery in Meat

Some things are so simple that they have to be explained again and again. When things are obvious, people keep looking for mysteries behind them.

So it is with the packing business. The mere size of Swift & Company confuses many. Because their imaginations are not geared up to scale, they believe there must be magic in it somewhere—some weird power.

Swift & Company is just like any other manufacturing business run by human beings like yourself; it takes in raw material on the one hand and turns out a finished product on the other.

Swift & Company keeps down the "spread," or the expense absorbed between raw and finished material, to as low a figure as possible. (If it didn't it would be put out of business by others who do.)

How much Swift & Company pays for the raw material, and how much it gets for the finished product, depends upon conditions which Swift & Company does not control.

It depends entirely upon how much people want the finished product, and how much raw material there is available to make it from.

The profits of Swift & Company amount to less than one cent per pound on all meats and by-products—less than one-fourth of a cent on beef.
